4. Short Description

Learning to write starts with a good pencil and pen grip. In order to learn to write fluently and easily, it is important that the pencil or pen is held in the right way.

As soon as the pen grip succeeds, it is difficult for many children to learn to write neatly, often a pressure problem arises, in which the writer feels little or no pressure when writing. The Egg-Ohs Pencil Grip helps children learn to write neatly, putting pressure on the pen thickener. This Gripper gives proprioceptive and tactile input to children who have problems with dyspraxia or motor skills. In addition, the Gripper develops the small muscles of the hand and fingers that are needed to write neatly.
